

Action Mesothelioma Day 2011

Dear All

Here is our third bulletin for Action Mesothelioma Day (AMD) on Friday 1 July 2011.

Mesothelioma UK will communicate events for the day to everyone and anyone interested. Please feel free to pass this bulletin on and forward the email addresses of anyone who you think we should include.

If you are organising an AMD event in your area please forward details so that we can let everyone know. This is the second of many AMD updates so please do not worry if your event is not included, just forward it to us for the next issue. We will also circulate two bulletins after AMD that will include pictures and summaries of events that took place.

Best wishes

Liz

The June Hancock Mesothelioma Research Fund is delighted to invite you to “meet the experts” on AMD

This FREE event will enable Mesothelioma sufferers, their families and health and social care professionals working in the field to meet specialists in the treatment of Mesothelioma, researchers investigating the disease, and experts in the legal assistance available to sufferers, along with representatives from the June Hancock Mesothelioma Research Fund (JHMRF).

The day will have an informal, round table style, allowing attendees the opportunity to meet these experts, hear about their work and ask questions of them. Lunch and refreshments will be provided.

Experts will include representatives from each of the four research projects currently supported by the June Hancock Mesothelioma Research Fund. The JHMRF has recently funded the first clinical trial of an immunotherapy vaccine in combination with standard chemotherapy and is also funding studies into the molecular pathways of mesothelioma cells, the activity of a specific set of genes found in some types of mesothelioma cells and a PhD project that will investigate the anti-mesothelioma activity of a new biological compound derived from bacteria. Respiratory physicians and oncologists who treat people with mesothelioma and solicitors, and other legal experts, who deal with mesothelioma cases, will also be present.

There will be poster displays of research and related topics.

Local support groups will also be on hand to talk to people and provide information about their membership and activities.

British Lung Foundation

It's nearly that time of year again and as Action Mesothelioma Day fast approaches the British Lung Foundation is planning a media campaign using the 'Be Asbestos Aware' theme. Similar to last year the aim of the communications will be to target people who are considering doing DIY in their home to make them more aware of the risks of exposure to asbestos and to advise them about what to do if they find it.

The Communications team will be working with journalists to produce features based around real life stories of Mesothelioma patients. If you or someone you know has been affected by Mesothelioma and would also like to raise awareness of this cruel disease by talking to the media you can call Hayley in the Communications Team on 0207 688 5565 or email Hayley.richardson@blf-uk.org to find out more.

The BLF will also be posting all the events that appear in this newsletter on our website so make sure you keep a look out at www.lunguk.org
