

CHRISTMAS FAYRE

Peter, Jane and Lyn Budd again have raised more money for Mesothelioma UK Charitable Trust. Earlier in the year Jane and Lyn Budd did their 'First Ever Boot Sale' and kindly donated £37.50. They put their thinking caps on and decided on having a stall at their local school's Christmas Fayre to raise awareness about asbestos and mesothelioma. As you can see by the photo's they sold knitted toys, tree decorations, crayons in felt cases and wonderful Christmas stockings.

All the little gifts look wonderful and you should be very proud of yourself!

They raised a fantastic £175!!!

The family say, "doing things like this help us to get through the dark days without our lovely mum", sadly she died of mesothelioma last year, and they know the money they raise goes to help others in the same situation they found themselves in and it all helps to raise awareness.
